RSL Badges

History

At the top of the badges is the Crown signifying allegiance to the Queen and country. There are two types of crowns, the Tudor and the Edward crown.

St. Edwards Crown - The Queens Crown Aka - ' The Coronation Crown '

The Edward's Crown is one of the oldest of British Crown Jewels and is considered the principal piece of the Regalia, being the coronation crown traditionally used in the coronation of first English, then British monarchs, including Queen Elizabeth II. Two dimensional representations of the crown are used in coats of arms, badges and various other insignia throughout the Commonwealth realms to indicate the authority of the reigning sovereign, reflecting the executive governmental authority in and of each realm.

Tudor Crown - The Kings Crown

The Tudor Crown was a crown used by the Renaissance monarchs of England and later Great Britain. The crown was possibly commissioned by Henry VII. It was frequently worn by Henry VIII, and is therefore sometimes known as Henry VIII's crown. The crown was also worn by Henry's children, Edward VI and Elizabeth I.

The Meaning Behind the Badge

The Badge is a symbol of a readiness at all times to render services to Crown and country, and to former comrades. It is a time - honoured emblem - one that has been worn with a deep sense of pride by the most revered in our land and one that glorifies all privileged to wear it.

Neither wealth, nor influence, nor social standing can purchase the badgew, which may be worn in honour only by those who have rendered service in the armed forces of the Crown or its allies.

We would ask that you look upon your badges as an inspiration to good citizenship, cherishing it as a symbol of all that is best in our national life and living up to the high ideals on which the organisation is based.

The badge has evolved as the League has evolved

- 1915 to 1919, badges were state based Returned Soldiers Associations, in 1916 a national Returned Soldiers Association badge appeared and gradually replaced the state badges.
- By 1919 the Returned Sailors and Soldiers Imperial League badge had evolved, after a reduction in size in 1922 it remained in use until 1941.
- From 1941 until 1966 the Returned Sailors, Soldiers and Airman Imperial League badge was used until a change of name in 1966 when the Returned Services League badge was introduced; with a change of crown in 1971, the badge remained in use until 1990.
- In 1990, the present Returned & Services League badge was introduced.
- The Women's Auxillary badge has remained structurally unchanged since its inception in 1922, reflecting only the change of initials of the League.
- The changes to name and badge since 1916 reflect the nature of the League and its ability to adapt to reflect stabilised changes about it.
- In 1923, the 8th National Congress of the League, adopted the Motto "The Price of Eternal Vigilance". The motto and its significance is clearly reflected in the League policies on National Defence and support for the Australian Defence Force.

Cunneen Signs are proud to have been providing quality Bronze products for the RSL movement for over 30 years.

By utilising both updated and “original” patterns, some dating back 50 years, Cunneen’s are able to produce the most accurate and desirable plaques and badges available in Australia.

Our skilled craftsman are not only able to produce the fine examples from this catalogue but are regularly called upon to bring to fruition “one off” or individualised castings for our valued clients.

Cunneen Bronze have a professional team of installers to provide installation for you, or we can provide a full size installation template with instructions that will enable your tradesman or club member to perform the installation themselves.
